

Vision Statement – Assistant Head Girl

As Assistant Head Girl, and eventually Head Girl my aims are to show the community what great potential students in Astley Community High School have.

I believe that a students' opinions should be heard and that the ideas which are voiced should be considered and feedback given. To do this I will be working closely with Daniel Campbell, the Assistant Head Boy. We will act as a go-between enabling the students to know the future plans which have been decided and to voice their opinions, ideas and concerns to the staff.

A priority of mine is to get students involved in the decision making of the school by getting them involved in the Student Council and also the Sixth Form Council. I will be reporting back to the rest of the school after these meetings to ensure that everyone knows what is happening but more importantly why they are happening. I aim to raise the profile of Assistant Head Girl by organising fundraising events, activities and events in which the local schools will be able to participate and help in. I aim to get people interested in helping with the local schools. I want to increase the communication between the schools and by getting everyone up and involved I will increase Astley's good reputation in the process.

I hope to build upon the links between our charity partnerships and also the schools and villages in Sri Lanka and Ghana. A lot of work has also been done on these projects already and I am hoping my contributions will significantly help the lives of others.

I am expecting a very busy two years in which my role as Assistant Head Girl will pay off and I hope to leave the school a better place for you, and the community a better place for everyone.

Sheri Burrows, Assistant Head Girl.
